

Zero Value Packet

All investments involve an element of risk, and although we hope that your investments do well, it is an unfortunate truth that some will end up as total losses. When this happens, you will need to take a series of steps to assign a zero value to the asset and remove it from your account. Proceeding as such may seem inconvenient, but you will alleviate your personal tax burden by doing so. The distribution of a worthless asset will not incur taxes or penalties for you.

New Direction Trust Company will require the following items to initiate a zero valuation and distribute the asset:

- Distribution/Notice of Withholding Form
Worthless assets don't simply disappear and we can't delete the asset from your account. The asset must be removed from the account via in-kind distribution (the withdrawal of an actual asset instead of cash).
- Fair Market Valuation (FMV) Form
This form must be signed by both the valuator and the client.
- Zero Valuation Request from the Client
The IRA holder must provide a letter requesting the asset's value be updated to zero. A sample version of the letter is included in this packet and needs to be filled out completely.
- Proof of Zero Valuation
We require supporting documentation to complete a zero valuation. This can be the most difficult part of the process, as many times the managers or borrowers cannot be located or want nothing more to do with the asset. Below is a brief guide regarding supporting documentation:

Acceptable	Not Acceptable
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A letter from a CPA or Attorney • A letter from a managing member on company letterhead • Any official court documents, including bankruptcy or criminal filings 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Schedule K-1s • Documents from the Secretary of State website • Newspaper or website clippings • Non- authorized signers (i.e. the janitor or landlord) • Electronic correspondence with the company (e-mail) • Personal research • Voicemails and text messages

New Direction Trust Company knows this can be a trying and frustrating process and we will do all that we can to make it easier. Once we receive valid documentation, a ticket will be created in your account to affirm the initiation of the zero valuation process. From that point, we will waive any fees for one year while you gather the necessary documents. If the value change is not completed within one year, the process will need to be restarted and any waived fees will be charged. We will not distribute any account for non-payment of fees that is working toward a zero value.

Please ensure your contact information is up to date, as maintaining open communication will be critical. We need to know that you are working toward completing the zero valuation process. If we do not hear from you in a 90-day period, we will close the ticket and you will have to begin the process again.

Additional Notes

- Bankruptcy Filing - Bankruptcy does not mean that an investment is worthless. If a borrower or entity files for bankruptcy, it is possible that the IRA can still get something back. After being notified of the bankruptcy, you must list the IRA as a creditor. Also remember that any applicable paperwork must be signed by an authorized signer from New Direction Trust Company.
- Lawsuits - If you decide to take legal action against the borrower or entity on behalf of your IRA, it is your responsibility to select an attorney. It is very important that the attorney understand that he or she is representing the IRA and not the IRA holder. It is also important to remember that all legal costs must be paid through the IRA.
- Roth IRA - If the investment in question was made with a Roth IRA, you have the option of distributing all of your Roth accounts and writing off the loss. Please consult your CPA or tax advisor for details.
- Earnings After Distribution - If income is received after the asset has been distributed, it is the IRA holder's responsibility to report the earnings as personal income.
- Notes with a Zero Value - Once you obtain documentation to verify that a note is uncollectible and therefore worth nothing to the IRA, a Form 1099-C will be prepared for the borrower. The entire value of the note will be designated as income received by your borrower, who will consequently inherit the tax burden.
